Negro Financier Addresses Bankers—

Meet in Washington Next.

A dispatch from New York last night says: The American Bankers' convention adjourned today, after the election of the officers agreed upon in committee last evening, and hearing addresses made by Logan C. Murray, president of the American National Bank of Louisville, Ky., and John S. Peshier, vice president of the Drexler National Bank of Columbus, Ohio, the two oldest members of the original fourteen charter members of the association. It was unofficially given out by a number of the members of the executive council that Washington, D. C., will be the next meeting place of the association.

G. S. Whitton, vice president of the National City Bank of this city, was elected chairman of the executive council, and James H. Branch was elected for the tenth consecutive time secretary of the association. His assistant, W. S. Fitzwill-son, was also re-elected. Ralph Vehter, cashier of the Cedar Rapids National Bank of Cedar Rapids, Iowa, was made the new treasurer.

Rising to call attention of the delegates to his race, their progress and their hopes, John Mitchell, Jr., president of the Mechanics' Savings Bank of Richmond, Va., the only negro delegate, disclaimed that any color line was between the better class of whites and the better class of blacks.

It is the black loafers in the south that cause the troubles and persecution of our race, and we despise them as well as do the whites," said he. He thanked the delegates for the kindness of his reception and entertainment at this convention. He said his color had in no way affected his standing as a delegate.

NEW QUARTERS READY

Removal of Central Telephone Exchange Tonight.

A LABYRINTH OF WIRE

TRANSFER WILL BE MADE WITHOUT INTERRUPTING SERVICE.

Many New Improvements—No More Flirting With the Sweet-Voiced Operator—Expense Involved.

The long-awaited transfer of the local telephone exchange from its old quarters at G and 14th streets to its new home on 14th street between G and H streets will be effected this evening at 10 o'clock, when present plans miscarry. Of all the mysterious institutions which go to make up the equipment of a modern American city the least known is the throne of the telephone girl, who with remarkable composure and good humor, can insist that your number is "Busy now. Call again." Who has not wondered what the fair creature looks like at the other end of the "phone when she asks, "Number, please?" or interrupts a Rip Van Winkle reverie with "Did you get them?" If all such curious persons will call on the Chesapeake and Potomac Telephone Company this evening at the stipulated hour they may see a small army of these young ladies as they put into operation the largest telephone switchboard south of New York.

Perhaps the most remarkable fact about the transfer is the statement of Manager Bethell that practically there will be no interruption in the service to the six thousand subscribers. At 10 o'clock the "heat coils" in the old building will be withdrawn, cutting off the board from the present system. A corps of employees will make connections on the new board, so that some of the subscribers will be without service for a few minutes. One shift of operators will be stationed at the new board to take up the calls the moment the operators at the old headquarters are relieved, and an improvement entailing the expenditure of more than half a million dollars will become available to the residents of the national capital.

Coinciding with the transfer of homes will be the inauguration of many new departures and improvements. There will be no more rings on party lines, except on the "phone wanted. The present system of ringing one, two, three or four times, as the case may be, disturbing all members of the party line, when only one of them is wanted. Under the new system, if the subscriber designated will be called, making the party lines much more desirable than now, when one has to stop and count the rings in order to ascertain whether it is for him or for his neighbor.

Tiny electric lamps, working automatically, will inform the operator the exact position of the subscriber's receiver. If the receiver is off the hook, the lamp is lit; if the receiver is hung up the light goes out, and the pleasant voice of the telephone girl as she asks "Are you through?" or still busier will become a thing of the past. She will know at a glance whether you are busy, whether you have answered your standing order, or whether you intend to answer it.

There is one feature of the new system, however, which no doubt will be regretted by many of the regular patrons of the company. Some conscientious inventor has perfected a scheme by which an assistant manager, stationed in the center of the immense operating room on the top floor of the new building, can connect up with any of the boards and "butt in" on all conversations with the telephone girl. Whenever the assistant manager thinks one of his young ladies is exchanging "bon mots" and sweet nothings over the phone with a subscriber who hasn't anything else to do, at the same time neglecting another subscriber who is waiting, he can, without fully for his number, he places his receiver to his ear, puts a plug in No. 2 or 4 or 6, and listens. Having convinced himself as to the transgression, he walks over to the offending girl and advises her the company can do without her services for a week or so. It is always suspension of the scheme.

Complaints as to service will be made to the chief operator, who will have a desk with a "service test board." By putting in a certain plug she can tell exactly how much time elapses between the subscriber's call and the answer by the operator. This plug may be left in a day or a week, and every time the complaining subscriber calls a little electric bulb will light. As soon as the operator answers another bulb will light, and the test is complete. The company works on the reasoning that there always is some cause for complaints, and it is using every device and invention practicable to ascertain the troubles and perfect its service.

By another automatic arrangement the operators will be informed when a line is out of order or busy. When the line is in trouble, a certain signal is set which notifies the operator by an intermittent light. If she is not looking at the board, she receives notice through the telephone receiver by an intermittent scraping noise. The subscriber can also hear this, and must know thereby that the number wanted cannot be had.

The Real Boss. In addition to the chief operator and assistant manager's desks, there are counting desks and a desk for the manager, although this last named official is not supposed to remain in any one place more than a moment. A great many persons who use the telephones constantly are led to believe, from the tone of the operator's voice, that she is the president of the company, but this is not so. In fact, she is always looking apprehensively out of the corners of her eyes for the manager, who is a sort of nomad, wandering here, there and everywhere, rudely interrupting 5 o'clock tea conversations and insisting that the rules of the office be adhered to. The manager's desk will be used as a receptacle for pay-roll blanks and "character slips," that the efficiency of any operator for a stated period may be determined in a moment. So when "central" is unreasonable, remember the manager.

The company also proceeds on the basis that all work and no play makes Mary a dull girl. When she gets tired sitting on her high chair she naturally becomes irritable. She doesn't care whether you get your number or not, and is liable to sass the manager and lose her position. The efficiency of any operator for a stated period may be determined in a moment. So when "central" is unreasonable, remember the manager.

$100,000, which shows a permanent "surface improvement" aggregating $1,000,000. In addition to this the company claims to have saved $1,200,000 in the last two years in "subsurface," or underground, work. When the value of the original plant into consideration the telephone enterprise in the District of Columbia represents something like $3,000,000. Investment is always going on, and the work of construction is never ended. With a railroad or a telegraph company it is different. They build a line and quit for a while. The telephone company, on the other hand, every day for a new line, and consequently must purchase new material for the installation. "We have some expensive equipment which the public do not take into consideration," said General Manager Bethell today. "For instance, we have furnished a building, line to a point in southern Maryland at a cost of $30,000. Our receipts from this source are about 10 cents a day, so that we will get our money back in interest in about 1,100 years, provided the immortality of the company is not affected. Still, we had to have this line because certain contracts depended upon it."

SPORTS OF ALL SORTS

Oetrich was a length and a half before Hurstbourne. Sydney Paget's Goldroft, a hot favorite at 2 to 1 in the first race, for two-year-olds at six furlongs, was bested by Beaten. Burns put up a ding-dong finish on Fleur de Marie, 4 to 1, who won by three parts of a length from Workman, 9 to 1, with Confessor, 20 to 1, a length and a half back. The time was 1:14 1/2.

John A. Drake's Jocund, a prohibitive first choice at 1 to 2, won in 1:40 1/2. Wotan, who was heavily backed for the place, was stuporously handled by Lucien Lync. The boy, who had second money clinched at the last sixteenth pole, and proceeded to enjoy a short nap, not awakening until Odom had sneaked up on the rear of the field, 12 to 1, to beat Wotan half a length.

A ton of good money was lost on S. S. Brown's Audubon, 5 to 1 favorite, in the third race, at six furlongs, chiefly because the Escher colt was shut off in the first half mile. J. W. Colt's Castellan, unbeaten by a length in the second race, was shut off at the head of the stretch, and came home an easy winner by two and a half lengths in 1:45 1/2. Counterpoint, 2 to 1, took command at the head of the stretch, and came home an easy winner by two and a half lengths in 1:45 1/2. Auditor was fourth and closing at the end.

Selling players ran a mile and a quarter in the fifth race, The Southern, 3 to 2 favorite, winning with something to spare the time of 2:05 3/4. Stole Moments, 5 to 1, was second, with Ed Tierney, 4 to 1, four lengths away.

John A. Madeline's Linda Lee, a 10 to 1 shot, qualified for the maiden two-year-old filly class in the last race, at five and a half furlongs. She got up in the last jump under the whip, and beat S. S. Castellan, 5 to 2 favorite, by a nose. Bill Davis's Ralment, 6 to 1, was third. Lucy Young set the pace until well on in the stretch, but suddenly blew up. Jennie McCabe, backed down to three, was outrun from the start. The time was 1:07 3/4.

A COMING JOCKEY.

Willie Davis Creating Something of a Sensation on New York Tracks.

Willie Davis, the western jockey, who went to New York unheralded a few weeks ago, has made rapid strides and apparently has a brilliant future. Yesterday at the Brighton Beach track he rode four consecutive winners in splendid style. He was badly beaten on Sydney Paget's Goldroft in the first race and edged outside the money in the second race, but in the third, he handled Castellan, 12 to 1; Dekaber, 5 to 1; The Southern, 3 to 2; and Linda Lee, 10 to 1, successfully in the last four events. In each instance Davis showed clever hand work and expert horsemanship. The crowd, which numbered in the thousands, was in a state of excitement. Davis was riding under a drive, but Davis did not use his whip until within fifteen yards of the wire, when a couple of sharp blows sent the doubter to the front in the very nick of time. Davis has ridden seven winners at the Brighton Beach track, and yesterday he rode the winners of the last three races. One of his most enthusiastic admirers is Ted Sloan, who backed Davis' ride in the first race. "Davis is the best jockey I ever saw," said Sloan after the race's success yesterday. "He knows how to handle a horse, and is an expert judge of pace. He is fearless and a powerful finisher. I believe that he will eclipse all of the best boys riding in the district at present, including Hildebrand. His work today was masterly."

Davis has not been riding a year yet. He is a lightweight, and a clean-cut, smart counter, who believes in taking care of himself. He is a natural born athlete and spends some of his time turning "cart-wheel" and "flap" and "cornering" him. He will probably ride at New Orleans this winter, where he will have a chance to perfect himself preparatory to next year's campaign on the New York tracks.

READVILLE RACES.

Major Delmar Trotted Remarkable Mile in 2:02 3/4.

Major Delmar trotted the most remarkable mile in his career yesterday afternoon at the Readville, Mass., track, despite the fact that he did not accomplish the task until he was tired to the bone. The world's trotting record of 2:02 1/4, made without the use of a wind shield or a runner in front. The grand Smathers gelding trotted the famous course in 2:02 3/4, one-half second behind the mark held by himself and Crescens.

The conditions under which the horse started were most disappointing, as the track was dead, being water soaked. A high wind and a raw atmosphere were other elements the trotter had to contend with. Alva McDonald stepped in the quarter in 30 1/2 seconds, to the half in 1:00 1/2 and the three-quarters in 1:30 1/2, but from then on, owing to the strong wind which blew directly in the face of the animal, the time was slow, and the last quarter was stepped in 32 1/2 seconds, making the mile in 2:02 3/4.

The favorites were hit hard, only one, John Caldwell, winning. Alton L. won the second race, and the third race was won by Invader. But for a breaking away in the third heat of the 2:16 trot, John Caldwell, the California gelding, would have won in slight heats. Gallagher was the choice in the 2:04 pace. He was outstrung in the stretch by Nathan Straus each of the two heats. Angolia, the western mare, was the good thing in the 2:08 trot, but she was on her bad behavior the first trip and Jay McGregor won. In the second mile Angolia acted better and stayed longer, but a break at the seven-eighths pole gave the event to Scott Hudson's stud.

Gladstone Kinsman the choice in the 2:10 trot, which proved to be the undoing of the converted pacer, as the field of horses which opposed him were faster than those with which he has been competing. The snake horse won the first heat from Jim Perry in the homestretch, but John Taylor took the second and third.

In the illness of Senator Hoar recalls one of his own repartees about his elder brother. The Boston papers had announced the serious illness of Judge Hoar, and a group of his friends observing the senator at breakfast in a club room hurried over for information. "Oh, yes," replied the senator genially, "my brother was ill. His family were all off and I was away, and there was not a person to differ from him. He was lonely as one katydid without another to cry katydid. I came back to town, hurried up to see him, contradicted everything he said, and we had heated arguments. Now he is better; much better. He will soon be himself again." And he was.
